Seven students from the South Vietnam Operations Course (SVNOC), integrated on an experimental basis into the recently completed Management Course, termed the course valuable and highly applicable in their training. Seminar participants indicating in critiques that they found the experience distinctly valuable. Although it is not possible at this point to predict the future of the Seminar, this experimental running -- like all pilot projects -- should prove useful in determining the proper nature, scope and length of any future endeavor.

Papers resulting from the Seminar setting forth findings and recommendations in regard to the "CS Structure," "Non-Official Cover" and "Covert Action Today" have been forwarded to the DD/P. In time, based upon the quality of the papers and their use to the DD/P and top CS management, the Seminar's value can be judged and its future be determined.
